

The Wave

[Verse 1]

Soft-rising waves,
shaping all things,
breaking all things,
through every storm,
through every calm.

[Verse 2]

Branches of light,
carrying matter,
born from the faults,
born from the fractures,
all comes to be.

[Verse 3]

Be it matter,
be it motion,
be it fire,
be it life.

[Chorus]

Waves, only waves,
in this wide sea
of flame and energy,
fields and waves and matter.

[Verse 4]

Fragments of being
drifting this ocean,
following waves,
only waves.

[Verse 5]

And all was worth it,
this wandering journey;
all was worth it,
all that exists.

[Chorus]

Waves, only waves,
in this wide sea
of flame and energy,
fields and waves and matter.

[Verse 6]

They danced and wandered,

'til they collided,
'til they were molten,
'til they became one.

[Verse 7]

In this vast ocean,
only waves,
always waves,
only waves.

[Chorus]

Waves, only waves,
in this wide sea
of flame and energy,
fields and waves and matter.

[Verse 8]

Now it is matter,
now it is present,
now and forever,
now it is life.

[Chorus]

Waves, only waves,
in this wide sea
of flame and energy
fields and waves and matter.
